

Descendants of John Eacott & Catherine Carr

Generation No. 1

1. CATHERINE² CARR (*JAMES*¹) was born 13 July 1775 in Dilton, Wiltshire. England Arr. 1828 "Borneo", and died in Pomarie Grove, NSW. She married (1) JOHN EACOTT I. He was born in Warminster Wiltshire Arr. Mary 2 1822, and died in Cobbitty. She married (2) JOHN EACOTT 06 July 1802 in Westbury, Wiltshire England. He was born Abt. 1774 in Warminster Wiltshire England Arr. As a convict to Australia per 'Mary 2' 1821, and died 19 January 1840 in Cobbitty, NSW (60).

CATHERINE CARR:

It was just as twilight darkened into the night of an evening in early summer of the year 1828, that the good ship Borneo in which we had made our passage from London, dropped anchor in the very spot, a few fathoms off shore abreast of the King's Wharf.

Of course my reason for emigrating to NSW was the hope of bettering my condition and joining my husband. I had been informed, and I found it correct, that very much higher wages than those given in England were earned by mechanics in this colony: consequently I had no occasion, upon arrival, to regret on this account the step I had taken.

After laying out what money I had on clothing, a few standard books to read on the voyage, and such sea-necessaries of the eatable and drinkable sort as were not supplied by the ship, I thought myself very fortunate in obtaining a good passage in the Borneo.

Initiated into that frightfully pernicious but common habit of the colony, drinking rum neat out of wine glasses, we went out, dark as it was, for a stroll down the town. My companion was another passenger off the vessel, and had visited Sydney twice before; and as the ships generally stopped 5 or 6 weeks there, he had had every opportunity of becoming well acquainted with the place.

At this period Sydney was but ill lighted; only a few lamps were scattered throughout the whole length of George Street, which, from the King's Wharf to the end of the houses at the foot of the Brickfield Hill, can scarcely be less than a mile and three-quarters. As we walked down George Street we found Sydney, according to the custom during the first hour of a summer's night, all alive, enjoying the cool air. The street was clear of vehicles, and parties of inhabitants, escaped from desk and shop, were passing briskly to and fro, in full merriment and converse. At the main barrack-gate the drums and fifes of the garrison were sounding out the last notes of the tattoo. In Sydney the barracks occupy a noble sweep of ground in the very centre of town, the best spot, in fact, for general commercial purposes that it contains, a spot that really ought, without further delay, to be resigned to the corporation for those many important uses to which it could under their direction be applied.

Leaving the long line of the barrack wall behind us we at length reached the market place. The fine building that now occupies the spot under the same name, was then not even in projected existence; but the settlers drove their drays into the open air amidst the old shed-like stalls that here and there stood for the occupation of dealers; and the whole was surrounded by the remains of a 3 rail fence. As we wandered through the rows of drays and carts, I could not but remark of striking difference between them and the contents of the carts of any general market for the produce of the land at home.

There was no hay, but its place was abundantly supplied by bundles of green grass, much of it almost as coarse as reeds, and evidently produced by a very wet, rank soil. In other carts we found loads of such vegetables as the country and the season yielded; some of these, we were given to understand, were grown in the Kurrajong Mountains, no less distant from Sydney than 40 miles.

In several carts we found sacks of last year's maize; and in a very few, last year's wheat.

Two drays only were loaded with new wheat, and these, we were told, were the property of rich settlers. It was very much the custom of the poorer settlers at this time, and indeed is so still, to sell all or the greater part of the wheat they grow, and live upon their Indian corn. This I was much surprised at before necessity, at a future period, had compelled my palate to reconcile itself to the peculiar flavor of maize-flour, cooked in its various modes; but once used to it, I have always since eaten it with much relish, and have consequently ceased to wonder at its common use by others. It is a common assertion, that the poor Australian settler (or, according to colonial phraseology, the Dungaree-settler; so called from their frequently clothing themselves, their wives, and children in that blue Indian manufacture of cotton known as Dungaree) sells his wheat crop from pure love of rum; and having drunk the proceeds, then of necessity lives the rest of the year on maize. But this seems to be only partially true. The fact appears rather, that wheat being the most costly grain, many eat maize from economy, selling the wheat to procure meat, tea, sugar, tobacco and clothing; and few persons who have tasted the deliciousness of a corn-doughboy eaten with the salt pork which constitutes so large a portion of their animal diet, will consider their taste altogether perverted.

After our cursory look at the market - if look it could be called which was performed in the dark - we went into 'The Market-House'. I really forget whether this was its name by license or whether it was merely so called on account of being the principle rendezvous of the market people. It, however, was a regular licensed public house; but I should suppose at this time there were nearly twice as many unlicensed grog shops, as licensed public houses in the town of Sydney, in despite of the constables and a heavy fine. In the large tap-room of the Market-House we found a strange assemblage; and stranger still were their dialect and their notions. Most had been convicts; there were a good many Englishmen and Irishmen, an odd Scotchman, and several foreigners, besides some youngish men, natives of the colony.

Amongst them were present here and they're a woman, apparently the wife of settlers. The few women were all sober and quiet, but many of the men were either quite intoxicated or much elevated by liquor. The chief conversation consisted of vaunts of the goodness of their bullocks, the productiveness of their farms, or the quantity of work they could perform. Almost everyone was drinking rum in drams, or very slightly qualified with water: nor were they niggard of it, for we had several invitations from those around us to drink. I could not however, even at this early period of my acquaintance with this class of people, help observing one remarkable peculiarity common to them all - there was no offensive intrusiveness about their civility; every man seemed to consider himself just on a level with all the rest, and so quite content either to be sociable or not, as the circumstance of the moment indicated as most proper. The whole company was divided into minor groups or twos, threes and fours, and the dedeen (a pipe with stem reduced to three, two one or half an inch) was in everybody's mouth. I think there was not an individual in the room, but one female, who did not smoke more or less; during the brief time we sat there. Their dresses were of all sorts, the blue jacket and trousers of the English lagger, the short blue cotton smock-frock and trousers, and so forth, beyond my utmost power of recollection. Some wore neck handkerchiefs, some none. Some wore straw hats, some beavers, some caps of untanned kangaroo-skin. And not a shin in the room displayed itself to my eyes had on either stocking or sock. Of course I speak here only of the very lowest class; such as were derived from the lowest rank at home. And who, whatever advantages they had had in the colony, still continued unexalted by improved opportunities, unstimulated by hope, and making no efforts beyond what were necessary to supply their mere animal wants. To the same mart came down others in various degrees superior, many, particularly among the young natives, of plain but solid worth; but this was not the place to meet with them.

JOHN EACOTT:

Mary II Journal

Portsmouth August 22, 1821

Embarked on board the Mary 176 convicts from the Leviathan and York hulks all apparently in good health. One man was reported to be subject to epileptic fits but that did not seem a sufficient reason for rejecting him. Also guard of the 46th Reg with L't Sutherland.

ALL the convicts came from either the "Leviathan" or the "York".

7 November

All the prisoners on deck, cleaned and aired below. Issued wine to the convicts. At 11 am made the land about Cape Leda (?) on the Brazil Coast. A bed was issued to George Fisher one of the convicts. Opened a cask of pork, contents 80 pieces.

Thermometer in hospital 830, in the cabin 800.

8 on the sick list.

8 November

At sea. James Fletcher, Lee, Thorpe, Rae, Kelly, Lovett and Bolten are doing well.

Number on sick list 8.

Opened a cask of beef.

9 November

At sea.

Henry Winchester one of the convict's rec'd a severe contusion of the testicles with some laceration of the scrotum by a fall down the main hatchway - much swelling & inflammation immediately succeeded the accident accompanied with much pain. Linen wet in Lotio Plumb Supticet was applied to the part frequently and had a suspensory over all. An opiate in combination with Antimony was taken at bedtime. In the course of the night a very considerable distension of the scrotum took place apparently from an effusion of blood, forming the part into an immense elastic tumour. Discontinued the cote application and sub'd the part with the linen Ammon C - three times a day.

Took a purgative of the submunate (?) of mercury and Islop (?)

Fletcher, Lee, Thorpe, Rae, Kelly, Lovett, Irwin and Bolten are doing well.

Prisoners on deck. Scrubbed and washed bottom boards of their sleeping places. Served out lemonade as usual. Shook and aired the bedding.

Number convalescent 8, sick 1.

10 November

Henry Winchester had a tolerable night etc (blood letting from scrotum)

Cleaned and aired below. Lemonade. Casks - beef and sugar

11 November

Cleaned and aired below.

Rev. Mr. Hassell performed Divine Service in presence of the guard, convicts and ship's company. Issued lemonade in the forenoon and half a pint of wine each man after dinner. Cask of flour opened.

12 November

Cleaned and aired below. Corporal Andrews of the Guard complains of some pain in the head and irritability of stomach and bowels. Purgative of the Submunate of Quicksilver and Islop was given. Edward Kenny of the Guard affected in the same manner.

Temperature in the prisons $82\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$, Cabins 80° .

Similar entries the next two days.

15 November

"All the convict boys and many of the men devote a part of the day to instruction under the immediate superintendence of the Rev. Mr. Hassall."

Temperature in the prisons $81\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$, Cabins $78\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$.

Casks: Flour, Pease, and Beef

Similar entries the next few days. Details of Winchesters treatment were included.

18 Nov: Only 4 on the sick list

19 Nov: Cask of Raisins

20 Nov: Temperature in the prisons 78° , Cabins 74° .

21 Nov: Casks - Pease, oatmeal, flour

22 Nov: Cask of Suet.

24 November

The hoses of the prison water closets were not (or 'put'?) in order.

25 November

"A blanket was issued to Stephen Reynolds one of the convicts having lost his first one overboard".

26 Nov: 3 on sick list

28 Nov: Temperature in the prisons 76½°0, Cabins 68°0.

1 December

Thomas Smith one of the convicts so nearly detached the third finger of the right foot (sic), in the act of cutting wood, that I deemed it advisable to remove it altogether, a tolerable flap of inlegunits(?) was preserved to cover the bone

2 December

The Rev. Mr. Hassall performed Divine Service in the prisons, the weather being too wet to admit of it on deck.

3 December

Issued pair of Flannel Trowsers and a flannel waistcoat to Lovett & to Richard Dixon. Temperature in the prisons 70°0, Cabins 65°0.

4 December

Prisoners on deck for a short time this morning but did not remain in consequence of the weather being moist and disagreeable.

Issued blanket, pair flannel trowsers & flannel waistcoat to John Tomlinson also 1 bed & 1 blanket to Daniel Holland. Issued a bed to John Richardson.

5 December

The weather has been much colder the last 48 hours attended with considerable humidity of the atmosphere. Several of the convicts are complaining of catarrhal affections, which in my opinion are attributable to a deficiency of warm clothing more particularly in the article of woollen trowsers or woollen breaches and worsted stockings. The duck trowsers and other clothing are beyond a doubt very proper on most occasions in making of this passage yet as often happens before we enter the tropics and after we emerge from them that the weather is cold comparatively speaking and other susceptibility to its impressions is much increased. Some of the convicts on their embarkation had warm breaches and stockings but it was by no means uniform.

Issued lemonade in the forenoon and wine in the afternoon.

Inspected the clothing and bedding of the prisoners.

Temperature in the prisons 66°0, Cabins 60°0.

6 December

Prisoners on deck, Cleaned and aired below.

Issued a blanket each to William Barnett, William Solomon's & Andrew Gallagher. A

8 December

Issued flannel waistcoat to Stephen Reynolds, flannel shirt to John Lovett.
Temperature in the prisons 650, Cabins 600.

9 December

Majority of prisoners on deck, those laboring under catarrhal affections remained below.
Weather bad so prayers were held below.

10 December

Carpenter employed stopping a leak in the prison.

23 Dec: Issued wine and sherbet to the convicts.

25 December

Issued ½ pint of wine to each convict in commemoration of the day.
Sick - none, convalescent 4.

26 Dec: Issued a blanket to Thomas Lewis convict.

24 January

Sydney Cove

All prisoners on deck. Cleaned and aired below.
Reported myself to the Lt. Governor & also waited on the Colonial Secretary. None sick.
Fresh Beef and vegetables issued to the convicts.
Temperature in the prisons 760, Cabins 740.

25 January

Sydney Cove

All the prisoners on deck. Cleaned and aired the prisons. Prisoners are all healthy.
People and boats are employed returning the remains of the Public Stores & Provisions.
Issued vegetables to the convicts. The guard was relieved yesterday by a detachment of the 48th regiment.
Temperature in the prisons 770, Cabins 740.

26 January

All convicts healthy. All prisoners on deck. Cleaned and aired below.
At 10.30 the Colonial Secretary came on board and mustered the convicts after which clothing was issued to them. Boats are employed (as of yesterday)
Served fresh beef and vegetables to the convicts.

27 January

All healthy.

Rec'd orders for the prisoners to have themselves in readiness for disembarkation tomorrow morning.

28 January

At 6 am all the prisoners were disembarked and at 10 o'clock were inspected by His Excellency the Governor who was pleased to express himself highly satisfied with their appearance.

John Rodmell

26 July 1821 - 28 January 1822

July 26th Joined the Mary at Deptford as Surgeon and Superintendent of Convicts. ...by end (?) to be embarked on the ships arrival at Portsmouth. Carpenters from the Dockyard at Deptford were employed fixing the prisons until the 11th of August at which time they were completed. August 12th the ship dropped down to Gravesend - on 16th weighed anchor and came too again at the Nore. 17th got underway, but was obliged to anchor again in consequence of very light winds and ebb tide off the Buoy of the Girdle. 18th got underway with light airs and at 7pm came to in the Queens Channel. 19th weighed and made sail for the Downs, came to in 6 fathoms water at 3pm. Rec. fresh beef and vegetables, at 6pm got underway and made all sail for Portsmouth. 21st came to anchor at the Mother Bank. 22nd got underway for Spithead, at noon came to anchor in 7 fathoms. A sloop with 176 convicts, a guard, two women & 3 children came alongside as soon as the ship was anchored.

A list of the prisoners, guard and wife is found in the succeeding pages.

Note: There was a guard of 37.

Amongst the prisoners was: John Eacott & John Hearne Age

General Remarks Mary II Surgeon's Journal

The Mary arrived at Port Jackson on the 23rd of January 1822 with 176 Male convicts on board after a passage of 129 days from Plymouth and which were landed at Sydney together with the guard on the 28th of the same all in the most perfect health. Several cases of sickness, as will be seen by the journal, occurred but which I am happy to say had a favorable termination.

The ship sailed from Portsmouth on the 9th of September but in consequence of strong Westerly winds setting in when off the Lizard it was deemed advisable to put into

Plymouth, not being able to make any progress from the state of the weather at that time , but on the contrary had every prospect of losing what had been gained. On our arrival there, a report was made of the circumstance to Sir T B Martin who happened to be at that port investigating the state of the Dockyards. Sir Thomas directed that the ship should be completed with water and that the usual supply of Fresh Beef and Vegetables should be demanded for the prisoners and Guard. These orders were come into effect without lots of time and everything was kept in readiness for our departure the first favorable opportunity. On the 19th we weighed anchor with a light breeze from the Eastward. After we had been at sea a few days the irons were removed from the whole of the convicts taking of course all necessary precautions to counteract any attempt at insubordination which might possibly be contemplated, but which I was not at all apprehensive of. The Mary was constructed with a Poop a circumstance that I conceive of importance , as affording a most commanding position for the guard a part of whom was constantly under arms in that situation during the day. It was from this circumstance principally that we were induced to remove so great a restraint knowing well from my own observations that such a measure would contribute greatly to the healthy condition of the prisoners, and which the event seemed fully to justify and I must not omit to state that they evinced much gratitude for the attention which was shown to their comfort both as regarding personal freedom and the due issue of provisions agreeably to the orders of Government. In order to remove all doubt from their minds as to the proper quantities being issued they were not only furnished with a scale of allowance but two of them were constantly to be present when the Steward made the distribution. With respect to the provisions supplied by His Majesty's Government for the use of the convicts every possible care was taken to guard against the substitution of an inferior species, which might be on board for ships use. In obedience to my instructions I used to attend the opening of provisions for the purpose of taking the mark, number and contents of each cask, and although it happened on two or three occasions that the Steward omitted to acquaint me when such circumstance took place I requested that the heading of the casks might be produced for my satisfaction. When the issue of lemonade first took place it was considered a very grateful and satisfactory beverage but after a time it did not seem to be taken with that avidity, which it had been, and bowels complaints had also made their appearance. I certainly attributed it to some irregularity in the mixing of the lemonade and accordingly, without previously suggesting my suspicions, I requested that some might be brought for my tasting the following day, but instead of bringing it from the pot as was intended I ascertained immediately that a portion had been mixed for me in due proportions a tacit acknowledgement that what was about to be issued was not in conformity to the directions which he had received. The steward was reprimanded by the Master and admonished to be more careful in the future, and I have every reason to think that he fulfilled the duties of his station afterwards with correctness. I have omitted to include above in what the irregularity consisted. It was in the withholding of a portion of the sugar whereby the lemonade was made unpleasantly acid and occasioned in some instances much intestinal irritation. It was seemed advisable to put into Port Praya (?) Island of St Jago on our passage out in order to complete the water, but it was not accomplished with that facility that could be wished owing to the unsettled state of the local government. A supply of fruit and vegetables was procured for the guard and the convicts. We arrived at Port Praya on the 13th of October and sailed for our ultimate destination on the 18th of the same month. Everything went on smoothly during the voyage, indeed much more so than could be expected from the character of those embarked. It was found only necessary to inflict corporal punishment twice in the course of the voyage and that in a moderate degree for thefts amongst themselves. A school was established under the superintendence of the Rev. Mr. Hassall and myself in that part of the ship appropriated to the Boys and which was generally well filled by those desirous of instruction. Many of them who were unacquainted with the alphabet very soon learnt it and at the termination of the voyage could read with tolerable facility. Divine Service was performed every Sunday by the Rev. Mr. Hassall who was a passenger, mostly on deck, but when the state of the weather would not admit of it, the same was performed in the prisons. Although I am directed to perform Divine Service I think the Board will admit the propriety of conceding that point to a professional man when there is one present and desirous so to do. I am unable to point out any changes or attention that would be more conducive to the health and comfort of the convicts. The arrangements at present both with respect to the fitting up of the prisons, the mode of victualling and the comforts and necessaries supplied in ease of sickness are such as to leave apparently no room for improvement, and are fully adequate to attain all that could be wished. It seems right that I should say something respecting the issue of spirits to the guard, but only with reference to quantity, half a pint of rum was issued agreeably to instructions mixed with a proportion of water as is usual in His Majesty's Navy and sometimes it was made into Punch by the addition of lemon juice and sugar. It was served to them at twice, the first issue took place immediately after dinner and the last late in the afternoon. This was continued for some time but from the intoxication and disorder that frequently took place it was deemed in consultation with the Officer of the Guard and Master of the ship, absolutely necessary to suspend a portion of their allowance of spirits, which was accordingly done. In future they performed their duty as became good Soldiers and I believe were very glad that such a resolution had been adopted for they were remunerated for such privation much beyond their expectation on their arrival in the Colony of New South Wales.

and Superintendent.

Nottingham Review Vol. 12 published by Charles Sutton

On Friday 6 August 1819 William Brownlow was charged with burglary.

William was employed by Mr. William Miller of Lancham. William Brownlow aged 19, stood charged with feloniously and breaking open the dwelling house of William Miller, of Lancham.

On the night of the 16 May last, and stealing they're out one silver cup, four silver teaspoons, pair of silver tongs, coffee pot, pair of brass candlesticks, and a wooden tobacco dish. William Miller deposed that his house was forcibly entered during the night of the 16 May, and the property enumerated in the indictment was taken away. His family, which consists of himself, housekeeper, and three others are in the habit of going to bed about 9 o'clock, and his servants rise about four in the morning. He makes it part of his duty to examine the doors and windows before he goes to bed and is sure they were all secure on the night in question. He was up at four o'clock woken by his servant man. Witness knew the prisoner personally, he had lived with him for about half a year, in the capacity of servant man. Witness engaged him for a year, but from cause or other he would not fore fill that engagement. Witness saw the prisoner before he went to Rev. J Rudd's, the magistrate that committed him for trial. The prisoner through the medium of the learned judge, asked the witness if he had promised him his liberty if he would acknowledge the offence, and were the property was concealed. To this question Mr. Miller replied in the negative, but afterwards acknowledged he had told the prisoner, that if the County was willing to set him at liberty, he should not object to it, and this he told the prisoner before he went to Mr. Rudd's.

Thomas Bacon, servant man to the prosecutor, stated that on his going downstairs between three and four o'clock in the morning after the robbery, found the staircase door fastened, which he was sure they left wide open the proceeding evening. And upon opening this door, which he did with the assistance of a pocketknife, he discovered a pane of glass broken in the kitchen window, the pin, which fastens the window taken out, and the window wide open. He called his master up and told him what had happened. Robert Chambers a Constable, took the prisoner into custody on the 18 May. From what the prisoner told witness, he was induced to take him to some closes in the neighborhood of Luxford, a considerable distance from the prosecutors house, where he found part of the property in question concealed in a hedge bottom, as previously described by the prisoner. He was directed to a field in the neighborhood of Mansfield where in a hedge bottom he discovered the articles of plate mentioned above. Mary Miller, housekeeper to the prosecutor, stated that every night before she retires to rest, regularly locks the parlor door, puts the key in her pocket and she invariably places the key under her pillow. About four o'clock on the morning in question, she found the parlor door wide open and her pockets on the table, but no key in them. This room is called the best room and they keep the silver plate in it, remembers the prisoner leaving Mr. Miller but does not know whether he ever saw her put the key of this room in her pocket, very probably he had. At all events she was firmly of the opinion he had found it there when he robbed the house. William Gilbert produced the plate found in the hedge bottom about a mile from Mansfield. On his property being exhibited before Mr. Miller, he swore positively to it. The prisoner said nothing in his defense and the Chief Justice in his charge to the Jury, reminded them of the prisoners formerly living with the prosecutor. This circumstances would unquestionably give him an opportunity of knowing that the housekeeper was in the habit of keeping the of the best room in her pocket. Certainly, no stranger to the house, and habits of the family would know that she put the pockets under the pillow. The Jury, without a moments hesitation, pronounced the prisoner guilty. And like the proceeding prisoners, immediately after the trial, the Court adjourned to the following day.

Nottingham Review 28 April 1819.

Committed to the county goal William Brownlow of Lowdham, Lanham charged with burglary Sunday. Removed from the county goal 24 September 1819 to the prison hulk 'Bellerophen' known as the 'Billy Ruff'n' at Sheerness. The Bellerophen was a 74 gun, man -o- war ship in which Napoleon was bought to England after the battle of Waterloo.

Yesterday morning the following nine convicts were removed from the county gaol, Joseph Fenton, Thomas Jefferies, William Blighton, Thomas Burrows James Fisher, Patrick Walsh, Thomas Redfern, William Brownlow, all received a sentence life. Humfrey Clay 7 years. Then when they were brought out to be put on the Hope Coach several of them appeared wounded and bruised, and we find this was accountably a most desperate attempt to escape they made the previous evening. Eight of these men were confined in the upper felons yard, when the time came for them to be locked up, they were called that they might come at the door one by one in the usual manner, but they refused. There is a small building in the middle of the yard, with a fire in the middle of it for them; they had pulled the windows out of this, and were burning them, at the same time loosing the bricks of the building and hurling them at the door. Seeing this Mr. Stevenson, the turnkey, walked into the place, one of them threw a brick at him immediately but with his staff he laid his assailant prostrate, and ably seconded by Mr. Osbourne, the constable and with some debtors, they were soon reduced to obedience. They had calculated on the turnkey coming in, and supposed by over powering him, they should have obtained the keys, and effected their escape.

William Brownlow was transported to Sydney, on the ship Mangles(1) 594 tons, Master John Coghill, Surgeon Matthew Anderson. The ship sailed from Falmouth direct to Sydney, 118 days at sea departed Falmouth on the 11 April 1820, arriving Sydney on the 7 August 1820.

On boarding the transports, the male prisoners were washed and issued with the regulation dress of jackets and waistcoats of blue cloth or jersey, duck trousers, check or coarse linen shirts, yarn stockings, and woolen caps; the women wore their own clothing but, before they disembarked in Australia, each was given a brown serge jacket and petticoat, a couple of linen shifts, a linen cap, a neckerchief, a pair of worsted stockings, and a pair of shoes. Food was generally considered to be adequate and of better quality than that served in the army or navy, though prisoners were easily exposed to being cheated of their prescribed rations by unscrupulous masters and stewards. "The rations are both good and abundant," wrote a ship's surgeon of the convict ships of the 1820s, "three-quarters of a pound of biscuit being the daily allowance of bread, while each day the convict sits down to dinner of either beef, pork or plum-pudding, having pea soup four times a week, and a pot of gruel every morning, with sugar or butter in it. Vinegar is issued to the messes weekly, and soon the ship has been three weeks at sea, each man is served with an ounce of lime-juice and the same of sugar daily, to guard against scurvy, while two gallons of good Spanish red wine and 140 gallons of water are put on board for issuing to each likewise-three to four gills of wine weekly, and three quarts of water daily, being the general allowance,"

The prisoners' quarters lay between-decks and consisted of two rows of sleeping-berths, one above the other, each 6 feet square and made to hold four convicts, so that each man had 18 inches of space to sleep in. The quarters were dark and gloomy, and the ventilation was almost invariably bad ; and never so bad as when a ship was becalmed in the tropics or when, in stormy weather, the hatches were battened down and the prisoners, instead of taking their daily exercise on deck, were compelled to endure the foul atmosphere of the hold for hours, and even days, on end.

While exercising, the convicts were handcuffed together and secured by leg-irons. "Ironing" was also, next to flogging, the most common form of punishment for male prisoners. Women were also occasionally flogged; but more commonly their heads were shaved, or they were placed in a scold's bridle or the coal-hole, or made to parade the deck in a tub. At other times, prisoners were put to pick oakum, or the more favoured might be allowed to assist in navigation or be selected as schoolmasters (as Robert Mason was) to teach their illiterate shipmates to read and write.

Generally, the journey was long and tedious, though it might be enlivened by disaster or loss of life. On arrival at their destination, the prisoners were kept on board until their "particulars" had been taken and they and the ship had been cleared by the Port Health Officer : at Hobart, this might take two or three days, but at Port Jackson a week or more. Only then were they taken ashore and assigned for service with the colonial government or private employers. After 1840, prisoners were sent on arrival to "probation" stations, from which they were gradually released for employment with free settlers according to their record of behavior. But, in the 1830s, the assignment system" was still in operation. It had the advantage of providing the prisoner with immediate productive employment, though he might be exposed to the whims of an unsympathetic master, who was empowered to send him before a magistrate on the slightest hint of misconduct or insubordination. Punishments were frequent and often savage: even for comparatively slight offences men might be sentenced to 25 or 50 lashes ; while more serious offenders were put to work in chain-gangs on roads and bridges and might become subject to even more drastic penalties. But, by the 1830s, the system had begun to become more humane, and comparatively few convicts (and a mere handful of the "Swing" prisoners) found their way to (the penal hells of Port Arthur in Tasmania and Norfolk Island, off the coast of New South Wales.

William was to serve his life sentence in the young colony, first being sent to Grose Farm and Longbottom (present site of Parramatta) in 1822 as a Government Servant. On 20 December 1826 he was given the position of Constable, from which he was later dismissed on 12 July 1827 for reasons unknown.

LONGBOTTOM

As the distance of 14 miles between Sydney and Parramatta was too great to be traversed conveniently in one day by parties of convicts on foot and their escorts of soldiers, a log stockade was built half-way along the track to serve as an overnight guardhouse and staging depot. This was constructed at a place called Longbottom, the word "bottom" there having its old English meaning "low lying land or swamp" applied to the drainage basin at the head of Hen and Chicken Bay, i.e. present day Concord Oval and surrounding area. An area of 936 acres was reserved in the surroundings of the stockade as a Government farm, but no sustained effort was made to cultivate it.

"At first a log stockade was erected and there the prisoners were detained for a night on their way from Sydney to Parramatta or vice-versa. As a rule they were handcuffed together while on the road. But the more desperate characters (bushrangers etc.) also wore leg irons, so that their march was a slow one; and the rest at Longbottom Stockade was doubtless, a welcome one. Later on a more substantial lockup was erected, and that is still standing. It consists of three cottages, built on sandstone foundations, with brick walls 18 inches thick

William assisted in the capture of the bushranger Henry Williamson of "Green Pond" Tasmania, Sydney Gazette 22 February 1828..He then sought permission to be being assigned to Rev. Cowper at "Wivenhoe" Narellan, N.S.W. In 8 March 1830 he had received his ticket of leave. It was during this period of time he met his wife to be, Selena Eacott. Selena had arrived as a free passenger on the ship "Borneo" 1828 accompanied by her mother Catherine and brother Henry, they had left Warminster, Wiltshire, England. The purpose for the journey was to join John Eacott, Selena's father.

John Eacott had been sent as a convict 1821 on the "Mary 1" and was assigned to Rev. Thomas Hassall(known as the Galloping Parson) at his property "Denbigh" near Cobbity, the Hassalls and Cowper were near neighbours, and it is possible that William and Selena would have met at the little church called "Heber Chapel" at Cobbity.

The convicts would have been compelled to attend church on the Sabbath, as part of their rehabilitation, for them this would have been a welcome relief as time away from their arduous duties, unlike other clerics who were cordially hated by the convicts population Thomas Hassall was said to be disarming and friendly. This can be born out by the fact that in later life John Eacott was to become a tenant farmer to Thomas Hassall up until his death in 20 October 1840.

William's description on his ticket of leave states that he was tried at Nottingham assizes on 29 July 1819, life sentence occupation labourer, height 5 foot' 7 1/2" inches, sallow complexion little pock marked, brown hair and grey eyes, general remarks - small scar on right cheek bone little pock marked, scar on left eyebrow, heart and two darts anchor cock and plough on right arm, several other marks on left arm. He married Selena Eacott 1834 at Cobbity, Narellan.

It is probable through their connection with the Hassall family that they moved into the Goulburn area where their daughter Mary Ann was born 1836 at Goulburn Plains. In 1838 when their son John was born, they were at Long Swamp, Binda. William was leasing 640 acres of land from Francis Oakes, he described his occupation as sawyer. This the present site of "Funny Hill Station". Their third child Elizabeth Catherine was born in 1846, she had been named after her great grandmother Elizabeth (Bessie) Carr and her grandmother Catherine Eacott.

Before Messrs W E Dugnam & Connolly

Francis Lilly was charged with stealing certain goods, the property of James Moore of Tuena. Senior Constable Kennedy deposed to arresting the prisoner on 29 May at Long Swamp near Binda and afterwards finding the boots & drapery produced at Weavers, where they took them. The prisoner claimed the boots & a piece of gambroom, a piece of print & a new can, the other articles, he said were not his. Weaver said to him "you bought them all here this morning" he replied "yes, I picked them up in a water hole as I was coming out yesterday."

The Weavers Family.

John Weavers was born in Gloucester, England c1761, on 4-8-1790 he was indicted for stealing, two live geese valued at three shillings, the property of Sarah Sutton in the Parish of Simington. He found guilty and sentenced to "seven years transportation beyond the seas".

On 27-3-1791 on this day the Third Fleet of nine ships departed from various ports of the British Empire. They assembled at St. Jago in the Cape Verde Islands, off the coast of north-west Africa. The ship was to travel in the company, of the convoy but this proved impossible the fleet arriving over a period of weeks.

The fleet carried a total of 1869 male and 172 female convicts, there were 172 male deaths and 9 female deaths, the journey took between 31-21 weeks. John Weavers was aboard the "William and Ann" which departed Plymouth carrying 188 convicts, arriving in Sydney 28-8-1791 after 154 days at sea. The Judge, Advocate Collins reported that all convicts on the "William and Ann" were very ill seven had died on the voyage and with five being extremely ill.

The "William and Ann" was a old ship, having been built 32 years before the voyage. John Weavers was to meet Elizabeth Steward who it is believed was born White haven, Saint Bee's, Cumbria north west England c1759. She arrived in the colony as a convict on the 30-4-1796, on the ship "Indispensable". Elizabeth Steward's crime was that of Petty Larceny, sentence to be transported for seven years. She died 5-5-1844 at Castlereagh N.S.W. buried at Christ Church Cemetery Castlereagh, records show Elizabeth a settler aged 85 years.

She had formed a relationship with John Weavers and from this there were two children:

Elizabeth died in infancy 1798

John Weavers was born 25-4-1800.

John Weavers(2nd) was to marry Jane Francis on the 20-1-1819, she was a daughter of Thomas Francis and Honorah Collins (both convicts.) Jane was born 31-3-1799 at Parramatta, Died Nepean 21-2-1875.

John Weavers and Jane Francis had eleven children, all born at Castlereagh N.S.W. John and Jane were known to have visited the Crookwell area as they were witnesses to a wedding at Tuena in 1854, it could be assumed they were either at the gold fields at Tuena or visiting Jane's relatives as Thomas Francis lived at the Abercrombie. It would have been during one of these visits that their son Thomas Weavers met Mary Ann Brownlow and married her.

Notes for ISABEL FRASER:

ISABELLE FRAZER

She was born 6.8.1832 at Alvie near Laggan Inverness, Scotland. Her parents Alexander and Margaret Frazer migrated to Australia aboard the 'St. George' arriving 4 July 1838, as part of the Bounty Migrant scheme. The ship carried all 321 highlanders from the port of Oban, on the west coast of Scotland. Her sister Henrietta was not to survive the voyage she died on the passage out to Australia.

The family lived for a time at Cabramatta where her father was employed by Mr. I.S. Moore, about 1840 they arrived at Binda her father having found employment with Mr. Jamieson as a labourer. They were living at Sawpit Gully, Binda; once her father was established he worked as a carrier with his team of bullocks.

Isabelle married on 16 April 1849 in the Wesleyan Chapel at Laggan to John Samuel Pate Larkham, the consent of her father was given as she was under age. They were living at Julong when her husband John died on 5 June 1853, he was only 27 years old at the time, leaving her a widow with three small boys John Alexander age 3, James Duncan 2 and Donald was only 7 months old.

It is not known how Isabelle managed at this time, she probably went home to her parents at Binda. It was some four years later when she married at Black Springs on the 27 April 1857 to a John Brownlow a farmer at Blackman's Hills. She and her second husband John were to have five children when he died 29 September 1867 from kidney failure aged 28 years. Again finding herself a widow, her sons from the first marriage by now would have been self supporting but with her second family whose ages ranged William Samuel 10yr, Francis 7yr Margaret Jane 5yr, Alexander 3 yr and she being pregnant.

For the second time she was again faced with extreme hardship, a widow again with a young family to support it was not long before she found herself a new partner. She married William Crilly in 1871 at Diamond Creek, he was a Canadian from Quebec, Canada. She and William were to have a son Thomas William born 1872. They continued to live at the Diamond for many years, some time later moving into Binda, when about 1912 William went back to Canada where he died, granny lived on alone in a small house in Binda opposite the Binda Church of England. She died at her sons Thomas Crilly's family home in Binda on the 11 November 1920 and was buried at Binda C/E on the 12th November, aged 89 years. She was survived by 6 of her nine children.

William was born in Ireland and migrated to Quebec, Canada with his parents sometime after his birth. He arrived here in 1866 in pursuit of fame and fortune as a gold miner. He returned to Canada in about 1912, visiting his sister Mattie at her farm. It is thought he passed away about this time as his son Thomas Crilly has recorded that his father William was deceased in 1913, on his marriage certificate. Family stories tell the tale that his love of alcohol was the cause of his demise.

Goulburn Herald
May 16, 1877

On Thursday last Mr. Marsden, coroner, held an inquest near Binda on the body of a young man named William Brownlow, aged about nineteen, who was killed the previous day under the following circumstances ; It appears that at a place called Green Camp Creek a man named Josiah Eldridge, assisted by a lad of about fourteen named William McDonald, was engaged in putting up a fence for Mr. Alexander Webster, when the deceased came and assisted them for about two hours with the fencing, and then proceeded to cut down a tree about two feet, nine inches in diameter. He cut it about half way through when, being a leaning one, it fell, splitting up the centre and leaving the butt resting on the splintered portion about five feet from the ground. Deceased then commenced to cut away where the tree was resting, and while doing so it fell over him across his chest. He did not speak, and on Eldridge and the boy, who were close at hand, running up to him found that he was already dead. Assistance was obtained and the tree removed. The verdict of the jury was accidental death and that no blame attached to anyone. The funeral took place on Friday, when about a hundred and fifty persons attended. The Rev. Mr. Clampett officiated at the grave. The deceased was greatly respected in the neighborhood. He was the stepson of Mr. W Crilley.

CLEMENTS, William

Crookwell Gazette, Tuesday 6 .9.1904

SUDDEN DEATH The death of Mr. William Clements of Burwood near Binda, was reported in town on Sunday, and occasioned considerable surprise, as no one had an intimation that Mr. Clement was unwell. As a matter of fact, deceased was in good health, apparently up to the hour of his retirement to bed on Saturday night and the first suspicion of his illness was aroused in his wife who was awakened at midnight by her husband's heavy breathing. She arose hurriedly and procured a light, but the end had come and she was just in time to see deceased breathe his last, the cause of death being heart disease. Some time since deceased had a fit, and it was nearly three hours before he could be brought back to consciousness. Death took place at deceased's selection some three miles from Burwood, and the remains will be removed to the latter place for burial to-day, the Rev J Walker to officiate. The funeral arrangements are being conducted by Mr. Walter Spiers of this town. Deceased, who was 62 years of age, was a very old resident of the Binda district, and reared a large family, the members of which are all grown-up into manhood and womanhood. The late Mr. Clements was a warm adherent of the Wesleyan Methodist Church before its fusion with the Primitive Methodist and since then his support to the combined body has been equally liberal, so that that body will lose by Mr. Clements death an enthusiastic and ardent churchman. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved families.

Argyle Liberal, Tuesday 6 .9.1904

SUDDEN DEATH OF MR WILLIAM CLEMENTS Residents of Crookwell were considerably shocked on Sunday last when it became known that Mr. William Clements, of Burwood, near Bigga, had died suddenly at his residence on Saturday night. From what we can glean it appears that Mr. Clements was in his usual health on Saturday, with the exception that a slight faintness came over him at about lunch time. It passed off, and he went about as usual up to tea time, when he partook of a hearty meal, and afterwards sat by the fire reading until he retired to bed. About 12 o'clock his wife heard him moaning, and on striking a light saw that her husband was passing away. Deceased, who was 62 years of age, was well and favorably known throughout the district, having lived near Bigga all his life. A wife and a grown-up family of five sons and three daughters are left to mourn their sad loss. The remains will be interred in the family burial ground at Burwood to-day at 2 pm. She married (1) JAMES PELHAM HAMILTON 16 June 1877 in St.James C/E Binda, son of JAMES HAMILTON and FRANCES GOWLETT. He was born Abt. 1840 in Hobart, Tasmania, and died 08 March 1893 in Drown at Crookwell River, Binda. She married (2) PETER CAVILL 22 April 1895 in Tuena, son of JOHN CAVILL and MARGARET. He was born in Brantwood, and died 1932 in Mudjee.

Notes for CAROLINE WEAVERS:

CAVILL, Mrs. P (Caroline)
Argyle Liberal, Tuesday 3.5.1904

SUDDEN DEATH It is with regret that we record the death of Mrs. Peter Cavill, which took place at her residence off the Wheeo road, about six miles from Crookwell, on Sunday afternoon last. It appears that deceased suffered from bleeding at the throat, and was attended for this complaint by Dr Pawlett some two months ago. Deceased recovered from the attack, and was up and about in her usual health to the day of her death, in fact she assisted in cooking the family dinner on Sunday. Shortly before dinner time on Sunday a severe attack of bleeding at the throat and nose took place, and all efforts to stop the bleeding were to no avail, death taking place some two hours after its commencement, and before medical assistance could be procured. Deceased was 52 years of age, and had resided in this district all her life, being highly respected by all who were acquainted with her. We beg to extend our sympathy to the bereaved family in their sad and sudden loss. SUDDEN DEATH A sudden death occurred at Lost River on Sunday afternoon last, the victim being Mrs. Cavill, wife of Mr. P Cavill, of that part. She had been ailing for some time past and was under medical treatment, but on Sunday afternoon appeared no worse than usual. However, she was suddenly attacked in the afternoon and succumbed within two hours. An inquest was dispensed with.

Death by Drowning

Crookwell Gazette Wednesday 8th March 1893

Mr. James Hamilton of Lost River was drowned in the Crookwell River Saturday night last. Deceased had been working for Mr. Henry Carr, somewhere beyond Binda and was on his way home on horseback. He called at Binda where he was last seen by Mr. W. Rolfe. Next morning he was found washed up against a tree, by, we believe Mr. Webster, about ¼ mile below where the Crookwell River crosses the Wheeo Binda Road. An inquiry was held by Mr. E. A. Webster yesterday and Mr. S. L. Cox, when a verdict of accidental drowning was returned. Deceased was about 40 years of age and leaves a wife and six children in very distressed circumstances. (He was actually 48 years of age)

Flood at Crookwell- A Man Drowned

Telegrams from Crookwell report rough weather. On Saturday a thunderstorm, which was usually severe commenced about four o'clock and within two hours two inches of rain fell flooding the low-lying portions of the town. Rogers' store and several private homes were inundated. The river rose a banker and carried away fences, culverts, and one bridge. Heavy rain fell on Saturday night and Sunday with the thunder storms. The total official register was 540 points. The police report having found the body of a man named James Hamilton washed up into a willow tree, three miles from Binda, in the Crookwell River. The deceased left the Binda Royal Hotel about twelve o'clock on Saturday night for Lost River where he resided on a selection. On Sunday morning Mr. A Webster found his horse in a paddock and made a search along the river without result. He then went for the police and they found the body half a mile below the crossing, a magisterial inquiry was held yesterday and a verdict of accidental drowning was returned. Hamilton, who was 40 years old, leaves a widow and six children totally unprovided for.

He was born a Binda 18.7.1868 to Isabelle and John Brownlow, his father John had passed away before he was born, his mother remarried William Crilly in 1870, he and his brothers and sister were raised by William and Isabelle and so began the lasting connection with the Crilly family. In his later years he spent his remaining days living between his two nieces Margie & Lenie Crilly, often going out in the trucks with Marge's husband Roger Kitchen.

There is a photo of Uncle Jack and Sylvia taken at Binda also that Uncle Jack lived on the property of Wal Frazer at Binda before he went into Crookwell. There was another story about Uncle Jack helping to make the Christmas pudding on the day Sylvia Crilly was born.

John or as he was fondly known to his family as 'Uncle Jack' was raised in Binda and worked as a station hand, going away by horseback shearing and fencing, it was during one of these trips away for work to Boorowa that he met Suzanne Woodbridge, the romance blossomed and they were to marry 29.12.1897 at St. Patrick's at Boorowa

They have six children Cyril, Rita, Eustace, Alma, Austin and Ina from these children his grandchildren are represented to day. Uncle Jack was laid to rest here at Binda near his mother and father Isabelle and John Brownlow, his three step-brothers from his mother's first marriage John, James and Duncan Larkham, his two brothers Bill & Alexander 'Sandy' Brownlow, his nephews Viv, Harry, and Carl Brownlow, and his step-brother Tommy Crilly.

Notes for WILLIAM CLEMENTS:

OBITUARY
MR. WILLIAM CLEMENTS

Mr. William Clements, of Pleasant View, Crookwell, whose death at Goulburn on Tuesday afternoon last was announced in the Evening Post yesterday, was one of the best-known figures of Crookwell district. He was 58 years of age and was born at Burwood, Binda, where his father, the late William Clements, was one of the earliest settlers.

Mr. Clements, news of whose death came as a shock to his many friends, had spent his life in pastoral pursuits. He had also carried out a good deal of saw milling and had cut, on a conservative estimate, half a million feet of local timbers.

The late Mr. Clements was a retiring disposition and had devoted himself wholly to his home. During the past 15 years he had lived in retirement at Crookwell, where he had been a member of the Masonic Lodge for many years.

Besides his widow, he is survived by two sons, Reginald Charles (Pleasant View, Binda) and Colin William (Pleasant View, Binda) and two daughters, Mrs. George Marks-Rodgers (Narrawa), Mrs. George Nixon (Roslyn). He leaves also two brothers, Christopher (Burwood, Binda), and Sergeant James Clements (West Maitland) and two sisters, Mrs. L. J. Hearn (Goulburn) and Mrs. W. Selmes (Narramine).

The burial took place yesterday afternoon at the private family cemetery 'Burwood' Binda.

N243433 Pte FORD, Francis Sidney

3rd Battalion, 25th Brigade, 7th Division

Died November 29, 1942, from wounds received two days previously when Japanese planes bombed and machines gunned the 2/4 Field Ambulance Main Dressing Station at Soputa, on the track from Popondetta to Sanananda, Papua New Guinea. Age 26 years.

Private Francis Sidney (Frank) Ford died 1942 from wounds received during active service in World War 2 in New Guinea. Frank aged 26 years, leaves a wife and a young son. His parents were Bert and Kate Ford, "Avon Vale" Peelwood.

Crookwell Gazette

15 December 1942

Residents of the surrounding district were very grieved to hear of the death of Pte. Francis Sidney Ford, eldest son of the late Bert Ford and Mrs. Kate Ford of Peelwood.

Pte. Ford died of wounds received whilst on active service in New Guinea.

Deceased, who was a devout Catholic and foundation member of the Holy Name Society, was aged 24 years. He was well known and highly respected throughout the Peelwood and Crookwell districts.

The late Pte Ford was well known in the district hockey circles, having represented Crookwell district in metropolitan and country matches. He also played representative cricket and was recognised as an excellent batsman. During the whole of his life the principles of the game came were brought into play in his every deed and thought. He will be missed by a large circle of friends who appreciated to the full his many fine attributes.

A young wife and son are left to mourn the passing of a loving husband and father: also sorrowful mother and two brothers, Colin and Ron Ford of Tuena.
